

Manuscripts & Historical Studies Conference

Introduction:

It is widely known among scholars, experts, and researchers that manuscripts, documents, and historical studies play an important role in the life of nations and people, in particular, achievements of science and knowledge. Modern studies and researches show that manuscripts and historical texts are useful to future matters rather than the past. Hence, it turns to be the focus of nations to motivate their current generation and for scholars to look at the future and review the current programs and sciences in our present time, not to mention the historical surveys and multi-dimensional implications of future problems taking into account the previous suggestions and recommendations.

In light of the above, it could said that manuscripts and its recent studies can play a primary role in the development and educational research, taking into consideration that most of the authors were highly qualified jurists and senior scholars at their time, and they considered by people as giants who were ahead of their times.

Our conference, therefore, opens a new door for the encouragement of studies and scientific programs concerned with certain themes such as, development, innovation, and management in valuable manuscripts and cultural works to unveil further interesting issues for researchers and experts in order for them to add their useful scholarly contributions that will enable the current and future generation to develop themselves through recognizing the role played by their ancestors which will eventually increase the awareness of the importance of their role in shaping a brighter future.

Objectives:

1. To encourage research in manuscripts and historical works on science, facts and programs related to some concepts such as development, innovation, education, management, quality, creativity, and other relevant concepts that are mainly used in development in order to strengthen contemporary science and studies.
2. To derive scientific and epistemological method to identify the impacts of using such definitions on manuscripts and historical texts.
3. To explore the best experiences and practices in the proof reading of manuscript and historical texts in relation to with development.

4. To expand prospects of educational institutions and research centers on using cultural heritage to serve humanity.
5. To publish the best scholarly studies on heritage and development as well as introduce the efforts of renowned scholars in this field.
6. To implement applied and training programs on the proof reading of manuscripts related to the conference's vision and objectives.

Conference themes

1. Conditions and roles of scholarly programs on studying and reviewing manuscripts.
2. The efforts of scientific institutions in hosting the works of reviewing manuscripts.
3. The importance of reviewing manuscripts on development, innovation, management, and quality standards of education in developing the current rules.
4. Means, instruments, and guidelines of manuscript classification in terms of its scientific and academic value.
5. Importance of manuscript classification in the development of contemporary applied sciences.

6. Innovative ideas, programs, and suggestions for motivation of the reviewing of manuscripts.
7. The importance of organizational work and research groups in reviewing manuscripts
8. The role of contemporary techniques in the perseverance, use, study, and review of manuscripts.
9. The importance of studies on manuscripts of Islamic and Arab heritage in strengthening future studies.
10. Instruments of organizing and coordinating the efforts of global institutions concerned with manuscript reviewing.
11. The role of development programs in introducing the scientific and cultural achievements of Islamic civilization and its impact on serving all human communities.